Doan's have done great work in Barre. Norman York, 29 Branch street, Barre, Vt., writes: "I was subject for six years to attacks of kidney trouble, and I believe the complaint was brought on by a strain. I had pains in my back and was led to believe that my kidneys were out of order by too frequent passages of the kidney secretions. If I stopped to lift anything, it was only with the greatest difficulty that I could regain an erect position. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at E. A. Brown's drug store, and their effect was wonderful. The pain in my back soon ceased and the kidney secretions no longer bothered me."

MONTPELIER.

Stick Seven Inches Long Penetrates Boy's Body—Did Not Tell Parents.

Albert, the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Roberts met with a painful accident a few days ago when climbing a tree near the boys' shack in Berlin. In some way he fell, striking on a limb which had a sharp prong, this prong, about seven inches long, entered his body in the middle length. He lifted himself off the prong, which did not break off in his body, and walked some, a distance of two miles. He did not tell his parents of the accident, but the boys who knew of the incident told his brother, fearing that he might be more seriously hurt than he imagined. Two days after the accident occurred, his parents learned of it and summoned a physician, who removed a large piece of bark from the wound. The prong, which was fully seven inches long and as large as a man's little finger, seemed to have entered the muscles between the skin and the lining of the stomach, and it was very fortunate that the boy's intestines were not ruptured. He seems to be improving, though still in bed.

The board of trade has received from Senator William F. Dillingham eighteen important documents for the use of the board, which makes 21 volumes as the foundation of a library for the organization.

H. W. Coburn of Manchester, N. H., is to be manager of Swift & Company's beef house here, in place of G. H. Stebbins, who will be transferred to some other point, though he has not yet learned where Mr. Stebbins has been manager here for five or six years.

The Montpelier High School Athletic association held a meeting yesterday and elected Gardner Williamson manager of the football team, while Frank Curry was chosen assistant manager of the baseball team, and Harold Pope, captain.

A carload of brick has arrived for the power house to be erected on the State House grounds. The blasting of the ledge must take place within eight inches of the building and the work will be difficult. The windows of the State House will be suitably protected. Mr. Stanley, the head of the firm, will come Monday to remain until the work is completed.

Forty friends of Miss Effie Jack met Tuesday evening at her home for a surprise party in honor of her birthday anniversary, which also took the form of a linen shower and was the occasion for the announcement of her engagement to Madison Ballou of Boston. Games and music furnished entertainment for the evening and refreshments were served.

According to a custom started several years ago by Superintendent of Schools Browncomb, the members of the basketball team, which this year succeeded in defeating the senior five, with their substitutes and manager, will be given an informal banquet to-morrow evening at the Pavilion. Superintendent Browncomb has made it a rule to entertain the members of any school team, the winner of the year, who succeeded in defeating the senior. The basketball season just passed is one of the most successful ever played.

The entire program for the Merrill centenary celebration, to be held in Bethany church, in this city, April 14, and 15, has been arranged. Those already invited to be present and give addresses President M. H. Durham of the university of Vermont has accepted, and Governor George H. Prouty will speak. Ex-Senator George F. Edmunds has been obliged to decline the invitation, as he is spending the winter at Alpen, S. C., and cannot make the journey to Vermont at this season of the year. However, he sent a letter for the occasion. The Montpelier orchestra will furnish music.

The Barre and Montpelier Traction and Power company has purchased ten acres of land in Berlin, seven acres of George W. Olmsted and three of Arthur G. Crandall of Philadelphia, the latter land lying near Berlin pond. The traction and power company uses about 2,000 ties a year and the land was bought because of the cedar now available for that purpose and, with the future growth of the timber, it is estimated that there will be a sufficient supply for years to come. The ties will be cut as necessary and will save a very large item of expense for the company. The Montpelier and Wells River railroad sends to New Brunswick for its ties. The purchase of this cedar area in Berlin is one of the first attempts of scientific lumbering ever tried in the state and probably the first time a corporation here has attempted forest conservation. It is estimated that there are 10,000 ties on the land at the present time.

Saved a Soldier's Life.
Facing death from shot and shell in the late war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from what doctors said was consumption. "I contracted a stubborn cold," he writes, "that developed a cough, that stuck to me in spite of all remedies for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. I now weigh 175 pounds." For coughs, colds, is grippe, asthma, hemorrhage, hoarseness, croup, whooping cough and lung trouble, it's supreme. 50c, $1.00, trial bottle free. Guaranteed by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

TEN YEARS' TEST OF ECZEMA CURE

After a ten years' test, oil of wintergreen, as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription, has so thoroughly, so absolutely proved its merit for skin diseases that we have arranged with the D. D. D. Laboratories of Chicago for a special offer on a 25-cent trial bottle.

We ourselves became convinced years ago. Cure after cure and the testimony of the world's leading skin specialists showed us the way to cure the skin through the skin; not, however, by means of a salve, which always clogs the outer skin, but with a penetrating liquid that gets to the inner skin, killing the germs while soothing the healthy tissue. The oil of wintergreen compound, D. D. D. Prescription, penetrates, while soothing the skin, and a 25-cent bottle—a good-sized trial bottle—is now offered, besides the $1.00 bottles, in order to convince everybody. For this trial bottle ought to be enough to show the way to the cure, and as you rate the liquid the instant it is applied will take away that itch—yes, just as soon as the wash is applied, the skin is soothed and refreshed. Buy it! H. Wells, Barre, Vt.

We have just asked one who for years has resided in Colorado if the highly colored pictures of Colorado scenery, to be seen at our post office, were exaggerations of color, and he tells us they are not. They would seem to be a Vermont autumn all the year around.

J. B. Perham of Brookfield, who is frequently seen on our streets, tells us that in the last 49 years he has been present at 48 March meetings in his town; and that he had not missed a single freemen's meeting in the time. An indication of good citizenship, surely.

To accommodate the pupils of our village schools, for whom there is not room enough in our graded school building, our town hall is to be used for a time for the members of the high school.

We had a pleasant little chat Wednesday morning with Frank Canning, the engineer at the Gearson-Bennett Granite company's plant, who told us he thought the new heater recently installed there was a success. It was a day in running the large engine. This device uses exhaust steam for heating the water before it goes into the engine boiler.

The new air compressor being installed at the Gearson-Bennett Granite company's plant, it is said, will double the power in that direction. A late visit to this plant, and at the two other plants managed by Italians in our village, leads us to take courage for this business here. It has long seemed to many that our place is situated, with reference to the quarries, so that it ought to have a very thrifty granite manufacturing business.

Mrs. Ella Burnham, widow of the late Gordon Martin, was in Barre Tuesday to see her only brother, Will Burnham, who we are sorry to hear, is in quite poor health. We hardly know just what the extent of William's "claim" on Mr. Burnham is, but we do know that the preceding generations of his ancestors on the Burnham side were once residents of our place. His grandfather and great grandfather, as we recall, were sturdy, old-time Calvin Baptist deacons here, in an earlier day, and men and farmers of standing in the community. We hope it may be many a day before Will Burnham shall be gathered to his ancestors.

One of the things that some here are thinking about just now is an authorized report of an interview with the inventor, Thomas A. Edison, in New York, for a novel to be told by him that in all our rooms fifty wireless messages are passing through at any moment. (One of our factious citizens says he hadn't noticed them.) Mr. Edison tells of an instrument he has, with a bit of radium that would go through the eye of an apple, that has been shooting sparks for six years, and he expects it will be shooting sparks the same way for thousands of years—a hint for men with families of marriageable daughters. It might be cheaper than dogs, too.

RANDOLPH.

Closing Day of the Sunday School Convention.

The morning session of the Sunday school convention opened at 9 o'clock Wednesday, Rev. F. A. Walls presiding.

The meeting opened with singing, followed by prayer by Rev. Joseph Hamilton. Miss M. C. Amesbury of Randolph Center gave an excellent report upon the home department work, which was greatly enjoyed. She reported eight townships in the district, and in five of them there was home department work, well organized and in good working order. Oswald Hamlin followed with a paper upon "The Relations of the Teacher to the Student," in which was plainly set forth the necessity of the teacher having a personal acquaintance with the pupil. Miss Blanche Sparkhawk gave a solo at this point, "Ope! Then Miss Eyes," in her usual good voice. The next number on the program was "Where are we falling in Sunday school work?" by Rev. J. Wallace Chesbro.

Mr. Chesbro said if a Sunday school has not a normal class, a graded school, teachers' training class, home department work, a missionary committee, special music and does not observe special days like rally Sunday, decision day, field day and similar occasions, then the school fails in its work. A description was given by the speaker of field day, as observed in Maine, where there was a ball game, concert by band in attendance, etc., all of which served to make the day one of great interest and enjoyment. Dr. Bailey followed with a talk upon music in the Sunday school and advocated special music and singing by the entire school with enthusiasm. He declared that a good leader was essential to the success of music in the Sunday school. Rev. Fraser Metzger gave the closing address, upon "Where are We Succeeding?" In this it was demonstrated that the increased desire of some people to attend Sunday school was a sure indication of the success of the work.

Mr. Metzger said he had questioned pupils from each one of the different classes in his school, if they liked to go to Sunday school, and as a rule they answered in the affirmative. Some did not, because they did not care for and were not interested in the old Bible characters, but, generally speaking, there was a growing love for the work among the pupils. Dr. Durfee spoke at an early hour and announced the world's Sunday school convention to take place at Washington, D. C., May 18, giving railroad rates, etc. It was also announced by him that May 22 would be celebrated by all schools with a special program prepared by a committee for that occasion. The nominating committee reported the following names for officers, and they were unanimously elected: President, John Stone of Brookfield; vice president, H. W. Lewis; secretary, Miss Chaudwick of Randolph Center; treasurer, F. B. Fuller of Timbribridge; superintendent, Bible class movement, Rev. H. Q. Ward of Brookfield; elementary department, Miss Blanche Sparkhawk; home department, Miss M. C. Amesbury; temperance, Rev. D. H. Strong, Williamstown; state committee, Dr. H. L. Newell, East Randolph. After a rising vote of thanks to the people of Randolph for their hospitality, the convention adjourned.

Dana Spooner has purchased of E. E. Brooks the Brooks block for $2,500.

Mrs. C. E. Lazzelle of White River Junction is in town, the guest of relatives.

Glenn Bailey went to Woodstock on Wednesday to assist the orchestra there for two nights.

J. B. Sargent has purchased the Webster place on Weston street for $1,500 and will rent the same.

A large party attended the "Jolly Joe" from Northfield, gave a concert at the granite hall Wednesday night.

S. A. Smith is ill and confined to the house with a severe attack of heart trouble. During his illness the studio is closed.

Miss S. I. Pariah, who has been nearly three months with friends in Stowe, has returned home and is again at her old quarters on Randolph avenue.

Mrs. Thomas Jubb and daughter, Miss Grace Jubb, returned Tuesday to their home in Adams, Mass., after a stay of several weeks with Mrs. Chesbro.

The meeting of the Christian brotherhood on Monday night was not so largely attended as usual. A fine banquet was served, however, and Rev. J. Wallace Chesbro gave a fine address upon "Brotherhood Essential to Progress."

WISE CONSERVATION,

SAYS BALLINGER

He Scores "Idealistic Conservationists" in Address at St. Paul Yesterday Afternoon.

St. Paul, March 17.—In an address yesterday afternoon before the Minnesota state conservation convention, Secretary of the Interior Ballinger gave his interpretation of the national obligations regarding the public domain and its disposition. The speech, according to reports from Washington, had had the personal O. K. of President Taft.

The greater portion of the burden of conserving the natural resources of the country was laid by Secretary Ballinger at the doors of the states. "There has been and is," he said, "a grossly exaggerated notion, among some people, as to what the general government can do in conserving the natural resources that lie in the deposits of minerals and are contained in the soils and the streams."

For the most part, they have passed into private ownership and are under the municipal jurisdiction of the states. "Any national conservation policy must be predicated on the policy affecting the public domain, since for the most part the states are sovereign within their own spheres of jurisdiction."

Therefore, I believe a greater obligation rests upon the state than upon the national government to inaugurate laws to prevent waste in the utilization of natural resources.

Referring to the duty of the national government, he first regarded it as essential that the public domain be studied and surveyed and an "adequate and scientific classification of the remainder of the public lands" be made. He scored the "idealistic conservationists" heavily for tackling the proposition "without a sound knowledge of conditions."

"I grant you that such people are," said the secretary, "for the most part, sincere, but their very sincerity gives them such a vigor of imagination and prediction that it is oftentimes hard to combat their vagaries except through practical demonstration." Then to give them their due, he said, "They have this virtue, that they do not let us forget that extremes often prove fruitful of sound reason to those who may be over-optimistic."

Of his own stand in the matter, Secretary Ballinger said: "I am as ardent an advocate of wise conservation as the most radical, but it must be wise conservation in appeal to me. It must imply as full and free a development of our national resources as is consistent with our civilization and our needs. It may mean the reservation from use for limited periods of certain of our deposits of coal, of mineral oils and gas, of phosphate, or of timber, to protect against the inordinate greed of man who wish to exploit the present with no regard for the future or the general welfare, and when this becomes necessary it is a national duty to make such reservations out of the public domain."

"But we must not forget that we are not through with the policy of development, of building up new communities and settlements, even in far-off Alaska. We have not reached that period where we can say the remainder of our public lands shall be auctioned off to the highest bidder to increase the revenues of the national treasury."

"Congress is now struggling with the problems relating to water power, and other measures designed to retain in the government the power of control and supervision."

Discussing Alaskan matters, he continued: "The known coal areas in public ownership, where not appraised at their market value, are withdrawn from entry awaiting classification and appraisal, and all the unentered or unlocated coal lands in Alaska are standing under an absolute withdrawal set of 1906, and not a patent has ever been issued on an acre of coal land in Alaska."

In fact, nearly all the coal lands that have been patented have been obtained, not as coal lands, but under the guise of some other form of entry, as agricultural, timber or stone, etc. No man or set of men can comply with the present laws and finance a mine on the public domain on 640 acres of land, except under extremely favorable conditions. The absurdity of the law, in itself, has invited fraud and indirect methods of evading its provisions.

"It is likewise impracticable to secure oil or gas lands, or phosphate lands, under the general mineral laws, and in all these cases there is no power of control or ability in the department to prevent monopoly in the sale of the deposits when title is once secured thereto. Awaiting remedial legislation from Congress, all known areas of public lands containing these deposits are under temporary withdrawals from private entry, and it is hoped that Congress will furnish the interior department with the necessary machinery to safely and properly guard the public interest in their ultimate disposition."

CONSUL JUNIOR IS DEAD.

The Famous "Educated Chimpanzee" Is a Victim of Bronchial Pneumonia.

Dallas, Texas, March 17.—Consul Junior, the so-called educated chimpanzee, who was dressed and taught to act like a man, died yesterday of bronchial pneumonia. Consul was insured with a London insurance company for $50,000. The body will be embalmed and sent to Kentucky for burial.

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG. SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good." It is non-secret, non-alcoholic and has a record of forty years of cures. As soon as you know of it, only the natural outcome of the action of this successful emmenagogue. The sales and quarters by sweet voiced singers will also linger in your memory for many a day. A strong company and a large chorus of beautiful girls will appear in the production.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Great Faral Drama at Barre Opera House This Evening.

"Uncle Dave Holcomb" is conceded by all who have seen it to be the greatest rural drama ever written. It is so different from the many so-called rural plays, the authors having eliminated the third-rate type of characters that have figured so prominently in plays of this class in the past. The writers of the play have spent two years in old Vermont meeting the real flesh and blood characters face to face, sketching the landscape for the scenery to be used; in fact nothing has been overlooked to offer the public a play direct from nature. The scenes of the play are laid in a farming community near Rutland, and when the company appeared there early in the season, William Lawrence, the star of the play, had the original characters visit the performance as his invited guests. When the curtain ascended on the second act showing the barn-yard and the old well, the good old farmer from whom Lawrence's character of "Uncle Dave" was drawn, turned to his wife in the next seat and remarked, "By gum, Maria, that's our barn sure as shootin'! Wonder if they bring the roses with it?" Mr. Lawrence and his original company will appear at the Barre opera house to-night.

"The Girl from U. S. A."

If you care to test how the depths of patriotic fervor can be stirred by a stage scene, just see "The Girl from the U. S. A." at the opera house next Saturday and witness the pandemonium that will be raised by the great climax at the end of the second act. And the best thing about it is that there is no time forced, only the natural outcome of the action of this successful emmenagogue. The sales and quarters by sweet voiced singers will also linger in your memory for many a day. A strong company and a large chorus of beautiful girls will appear in the production.
